Welcome to ROPEX 2007!

The Rochester Philatelic Association membership welcomes fellow stamp collectors to ROPEX 2007 at our new venue, ESL Sports Centre, on the campus of Monroe Community College. The USPS, UN Postal Administration, 25 dealers, and 4 cachetmakers offer material you can add to your collections or to inspire new philatelic interests.

Be sure to view the 190+ frames of exhibits. On display are stamps and covers that you may never again have a chance to see. The members of the ROPEX Committee have worked diligently to bring you a diverse and interesting show.

If you have children with you, be sure to stop at our Youth Area where they can get information and free stamps. Our hobby is educational, challenging, and clean fun.

Have a question? Contact any of our members, who will be happy to attempt to answer them. Enjoy!

50th Anniversary of Sputnik I

A Worldwide Sensation

Tyuratam, Kazakhstan, October 4, 1957, the long-delayed countdown reached the moment of engine ignition. The ground shook as the launch pad was blasted by the plumes of the booster's clustered engines as the rocket climbed. Still, little is known about Sergei Korolev, the Chief Designer of Spaceships. His importance to the Soviet space program matches that of von Braun to the Americans. Korolev watched through a periscope and then turned to a radar console to verify the flight path. Then he moved to another section where radio receivers were tuned to the satellite's frequency.

Russia Scott #1992

A beep-beep signal from space announced that the USSR's—and the world's—first man-made satellite was circling the earth. The Soviets called their satellite Sputnik, or fellow traveler. It weighed 184 pounds and measured 23 inches in diameter, the size of a basketball, and traveled around the earth every 96 minutes. The satellite was packed with instruments to gather and transmit information on atmospheric density, temperature, cosmic rays, and micrometeoroids. Sputnik's launch created a worldwide sensation.

The New York Times set the tone for America's reaction to the milestone with an unusually large Saturday edition on October 5, 1957. Most of the front page was devoted to Sputnik stories beneath a banner headline and a world map showing the satellite's track.

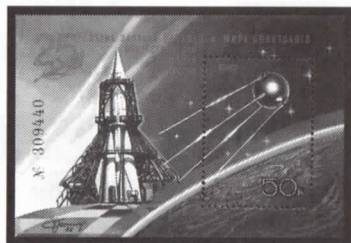

U.S. Scientists had known for some time that they were in a space race with the Soviets. Disappointed, but not surprised, they had lost the space race.

President Eisenhower regarded Sputnik I a particularly insignificant achievement. But the president had misjudged the impact of Sputnik on American journalists, the average citizen, and the U.S. Congress. From every corner voices were raised about the sudden Soviet "threat in space." Critics interpreted the success of Sputnik as an indication that American science was falling apart, that the military was not prepared to defend the nation, and that our educational system had failed the nation. The government's response to these fears and complaints was to dramatically reshape the nature of these institutions over the next decade, including the creation of NASA in 1958.

Russia Scott #5083

To commemorate Sputnik I, the Soviet Union issued two stamps: Scott #1992 on November 5, 1957 and Scott #1993 on December 28, 1957. The design shows Sputnik I circling the globe. In the years since the launch of Sputnik the Soviets commemorated its many space achievements on stamps, including the September 17, 1982, 25th anniversary souvenir sheet, Scott #5083

Ice Hockey

ROPEX on Ice ... Sorta

The Rochester-Buffalo region is a hotbed for hockey of all levels, and players at all levels have skated on the rink that ROPEX calls home this year. The Rochester Americans hold training camp at the ESL Sports Centre, Monroe Community College plays their home games here, and Section V high school hockey holds their championship games here. Three Rochester hockey players who honed their skills at the ESL Centre represented the U.S. at the 2006 Winter Olympics. U.S. Scott #2611

At ROPEX you will find stamps and covers commemorating the Olympic and World Championship games that Rochester athletes participated in. You will also find other hockey-related philatelic materials from around the world.

Hockey is increasing in popularity worldwide. The International Ice Hockey Federation currently has an all-time high membership of 65 countries. Most of these countries have issued hockey-related stamps.

The first ever stamp featuring a hockey player was issued by Switzerland for the 1948 Olympics held in St. Moritz. The player featured is wearing a cap, since games were played outdoors then. A 1959 stamp from St. Pierre & Miquelon shows hockey being played on an outdoor pond, with spectators standing in the background. The Olympic set issued by the U.S. for the 1980 Olympic games miracle on ice at Lake Placid is a favorite of hockey enthusiasts and philatelists alike. A 1995 Swedish stamp depicts Peter Forsberg's gold medal-winning goal against Canada. Canada issued stamps in recent years honoring several members of the Hockey Hall of Fame, located in Toronto.

The Soviet Union started issuing hockey stamps in 1949. A 1959 USSR set of three stamps commemorated the World Hockey Championships held in Moscow. These stamps seemed to announce the arrival of the Soviets as a hockey power, as they had won a gold medal at the 1956 Olympics, but the home team finished in second place at the Moscow championships. In subsequent years, the Soviets would issue additional stamps highlighting their olympic and world championship victories.

Hockey continues to grow in popularity worldwide, even in countries where it is not a traditional sport. In January of this year, the United Arab Emirates played in their first international ice hockey tournament: the 6th Asian Winter Games in China. The UAE team triumphed over Thailand 4-0 in their very first international contest. However, the UAE team suffered some growing pains; their next game in the tournament was a 38 - 0—yes, thirty-eight to nothing—loss to top-rated Kazakhstan. Practice, practice, practice...

100th Anniversary of Boy Scouting

A Time-Honored Tradition

The Boy Scout movement was founded in Great Britain in 1908 by Cavalry Lieutenant General Robert (later Lord) Baden-Powell, who was better known as the defender of Mafeking in the South African War. In 1908 he wrote a book called Scouting for Boys. Baden-Powell's book described games and contests that he used to train cavalry troops in scouting techniques. Prior to the book's publication, Baden-Powell held an experimental camp on Brownsea Island off the coast of southern England where he put into practice his ideas on the training of boys. His book became popular reading among the boys of Great Britain.

Baden-Powell thought boys should organize themselves into small groups of 6-7 under a boy leader—the patrol and patrol leader. Training would consist of tracking, reconnaissance, mapping, signaling, knotting, first aid, and all the other skills required in camping and similar outdoor activities. To become a Scout, a boy would promise to be loyal to his country, help other people, and obey the Scout law, a simple code of “chivalrous behaviour,” easily understood by boys. This formula for scouting continues today in every country where scouting exists. Symbols of scouting include the hand salute, using the left hand, the fleur-de-lis badge, and the motto Be Prepared.

William Boyce and Daniel Carter Beard introduced scouting to the U.S. in 1910. Today, several million young people between the ages of 8 and 18 are members of the Boy Scouts of America (BSA). Prior to becoming a Boy Scout, many youngsters are members of the Cub Scouts. After becoming a Boy Scout, a boy can achieve the following ranks: Tenderfoot, Second Class, First Class, Star, Life, and Eagle. The last three can be attained by earning merit badges, demonstrating leadership, and accomplishing community service projects. Stamp collecting is one way for a scout to earn a merit badge.

U.S. Scott #1145

The Boy Scouts have been depicted on postage stamps around the world. Scouting has been honored on four U.S. postage stamps, the most recent issued in 1998 (Scott #3183j), one of fifteen stamps in the 1910s Celebrate the Century sheet. Previous U.S. scouting stamps were issued in 1985 (Scott #2161), 1960 (Scott #1145), and 1950 (Scott #995). Special postal cancels have commemorated scouting jamborees around the world.

Philatelic Boy Scout material offers a wide range of specialties for the collector including, but not limited to, first day covers, postal history, postmarks, cancels, and thematic collections.

You can learn more about the BSA by contacting your local scouting organization. Information on scouting merit badges in stamp collecting can be found at www.geocities.com/Heartland/Plains/1466/page2.html, and information on collecting scouting stamps, can be found at www.sossi.org.

Jury

ROPEX is pleased to welcome a talented group of judges this year.

Douglas N. Clark, Jury Chairman (Marstons Mills, MA)

Douglas is a versatile judge and is qualified in many philatelic disciplines, from U.S. and Confederate postal history to thematics to postal stationery to philatelic literature. We are fortunate to have him. He first judged in ROPEX in 1998.

Allison W. Cusick

Allison is from Columbus, OH. His specialties include first day covers, illustrated mail, and U.S. postal history. He first came to ROPEX in 2000 as an apprentice judge and we are pleased to welcome him back as an accredited judge.

Thomas Lera

Tom has only been an accredited judge for four years but is already qualified in U.S. postal history, thematics, display and one frame exhibits. This will be his first visit to ROPEX and we wish him well. Tom's home is Falls Church, VA.

Stephen L. Suffet

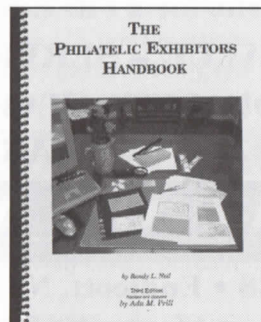

ROPEX has enjoyed Steve's great philatelic expertise on three previous occasions: as an apprentice in 1993, and as a judge in 1996 and 2003. His specialties include U.S. stamps, thematics, postal history, and postal stationery. A member of RPA, he comes to us from Sunnyside, NY.

Ann Triggler

Ann is a member of RPA and the ROPEX Committee. She lives in Clarence, NY. Her philatelic interests are very broad, including Great Britain and the Commonwealth, U.S. postal history, thematics, and revenues. Ann is Chairman of CANEJ (Committee for the Accreditation of National Exhibitions and Judges) for the APS.

The Philatelic Exhibitors Handbook by Randy Neil is an excellent tool for novice and experienced exhibitors.

RPA's Ada Prill recruited a group of specialists to help revise and update the third edition. This 320-page manual, 80 pages longer than the second edition, is a richly illustrated, easy-to-use guide that exhibitors may want to add to their libraries.

©2006 Subway Stamp Shop, Inc.

Altoona, PA.

Available from philatelic literature dealers.

New in this edition are sections on illustrated mail, cinderellas, and display exhibiting divisions as well as required synopsis pages.

This handbook is the next-best thing to getting feedback from a panel of judges. It will help you understand what a jury looks for. If your goal is to create your first exhibit or improve an existing exhibit, this book is for you.

ROPEX 2007 Thanks...

Collecting Groups

Rochester Philatelic Association www.geocities.com/rpastamps

Founded in 1913, the RPA is upstate New York's largest philatelic society with 120 members.

American Association of Philatelic Exhibitors www.aape.org

The AAPE was formed to share and discuss ideas and techniques to improve the standards of exhibit preparation, judging, and the management of exhibitions.

American Philatelic Society www.stamps.org

Located in Bellefonte, PA, the APS is the largest stamp group in the U.S., with ~44,000 members worldwide. Member benefits include the society's journal, the American Philatelist, and numerous other services and programs. Webmaster Doris Wilson will be available to answer your questions at the APS table near the entrance.

Art Cover Exchange www.artcoverexchange.org

ACE is especially active in the Rochester area and promotes art, philately, friendship, and correspondence among its members. The emphasis of this group is the artistic presentation of covers for exchange.

Empire State Postal History Society www.esphs.org

Organized in 1967, the ESPHS focuses on the postal history of New York State. Their quarterly bulletin focuses on society affairs and their twice-yearly journal, Excelsior!, features extensive articles about New York postal history.

Federation of New York Philatelic Societies www.nystampclubs.org

Representing 25 stamp collecting groups throughout upstate New York and the surrounding region, the federation publishes a bi-monthly journal, the Stamp Insider.

Rochester Numismatic Association www.the-rna.com

The RNA has served coin collectors and dealers in Rochester and western New York since 1912. The 100 member RNA meets twice monthly from September through June at the Rochester Museum and Science Center. Their presence at ROPEX is a cooperative venture with the RPA to cross-promote philately and numismatics in our community. An RNA representative at the society's table near the entrance will be available to answer your questions.
