The meeting, held at the RPA, was the first regular meeting held at the RPA. The minutes were dated 1913 and included information on the early years of the RPA. The meeting was held in the early years of the RPA, and the minutes provide insight into the organization's history.

The minutes state that the RPA was formed in 1913, and the first meeting was held in March of that year. The meeting was attended by several members, including the RPA's first officers. The minutes also note that the RPA had a membership of over 600 members.

The minutes mention the RPA's first officers, including the President, Vice-President, Secretary, and Treasurer. The minutes also note the RPA's first meeting location, which was a small room in the basement of a local hotel.

The minutes go on to describe the early years of the RPA, including the organization's growth and the challenges faced by the members. The minutes also note the RPA's first annual meeting, which was held in 1914. The meeting was attended by over 200 members, and the minutes record the speeches given by the officers.

The minutes conclude with a call for further meetings and the discussion of future plans for the RPA. The minutes provide a glimpse into the early years of the RPA, and the organization's history is an important part of its legacy.

1899 Philippines decreed that excess stamps should be destroyed by punching a hole in their center. There is evidence that some of these punched stamps were used for postage anyways and that some were precancelled for release to collectors. Also these stamps were used as telegraph stamps which were identified by the holes already punched in them.
